

Point size is proportional to baseline household firearm ownership. State-level baseline measures describe selection, not treatment effects.